MARKETING VALIDATION POST

Hello innovators! I am sending you a quick message to ask for your help today. You know, I went from being a comfortable cat to being a bootstrapping entrepreneur last year. I bet you don't know my motivation, though? I am all for sharing the idea further but for now, just a quick intro - I am building an AI system that would take care of your mundane and tedious recurring tasks for you. Starting from fixing disk space issues and ordering web server certificates to being able to help you drive your "self"-driving car eventually.

We need your input. This is not a promotion. This will help set our team on the right path. We can then soon come back with a tool that's really helpful for you personally. Don't worry, we already have a prototype. We just need to make it work well for you.
